

Brief Advice for the just polygamist Edris Kibalama

If a wife has more children and eg medicine fees then is it allowed to give her more, is it being unjust?

It is dependant on if there are any long term or persisting reasons to do it.

If the need is persistent, then it becomes a required extra expense that is not unjust on the other wives.

Keyword is the PERSISTENT part

There's a difference between

1. FLACTUATING needs

2. PERSISTENT needs

1. FLACTUATING needs encompass all the dependants I. E wives and children, and the guardian or Husband etc

2. PERSISTING needs encompass specific individuals that require it for ANY GIVEN LENGTH OF TIME e.g. Long term or permanent extra needs/ requirements
